Global Entrepreneurship Week - from Kuala Lumpur to Belgrade...

I've just seen the newly-launched Global Entrepreneurship Week campaign in Malaysia. It's amazing! They've been on Malaysian daytime TV, national radio, and at least four national newspapers - all in the space of two weeks. And now they have their first Government Minister involved. Kuala Lumpur is clearly the place to be this November! Or that's what I thought.

Then I started to look at the other Global Entrepreneurship Week campaigns on the web - and realised that a worldwide movement is coming together for November. Brazil has a fantastic media campaign involving Michael Dell, and hundreds of partners in cities across the country. Some brilliant new websites have launched for the campaigns in Serbia, Macedonia, Greece, Germany and Finland (though you should be prepared to speak one of those languages), as well as Ghana and Nigeria. Closer to home, there are hundreds of events planned in Poland and France. And, of course, the United States and United Kingdom have large, long-established campaigns.

Check out our Wikipedia entry to see a full list of GEW websites. The Week is spreading to all four corners of the world. So join in and get involved - wherever you are on the globe!
